SABLE, SABLE BURNING BRIGHT!

Professional wrestling is the hottest ticket in town and Sable is the hottest babe to hit the mat sport...ever! This bodacious beauty has met with success at all levels of the grappling game and is now even wowing them outside the ring, having recently appeared on the cover of Playboy magazine! There seems to be no stopping this voluptuous vixen of the squared circle who has conquered the WWF and has now set her sights on the world!

By Twig Martin

THE SPORT of professional wrestling is red hot these days! Some think it is due to the emergence of mat monsters such as "Stone Cold" Steve Austin and Goldberg stomping onto the mat scene. Some think it is the "attitude" of D-Generation X or the nWo. Some even think it is due to the reckless antics of grapplers such as ManKind and Terry Funk. We know better, however. We know what's really putting the heat into the mat sport. In fact, there could be only one reason that wrestling is burning like a comet streaking through the midnight sky: the voluptuous vixen named Sable!

Sable has the pulse of male mat fans beating faster than a hummingbird's wings. She has female admirers trying to emulate her never-before-seen combination of beauty, brains and brawn. The really amazing thing about it all is that this is just the beginning for the WWF's blonde bombshell! She's accomplished more in a few years than most would ever aspire to in a lifetime but, believe it or not, the best is yet to come!

When she made her WWF debut as a valet for the "Greenwich Snob," Hunter Hearst Helmsley, few figured that this fox would soon be sitting on the throne as the Queen of the World Wrestling Federation. Helmsley treated her terribly and while the fans were sympathetic, Sable didn't seem able to defend herself, leading most to believe she would soon be leaving the WWF with her head hung in shame. Little did the fans know that this buxom beauty was a success long before she ever appeared at a wrestling event, having had a successful career as a model for Guess Jeans and Pepsi. Like the fox she is, the eversly Sable was just waiting to make her move.

She did just that when she joined forces with "Wildman" Marc Mero as his valet, forming what many considered to be the "greatest one-two punch in the sport." With the sultry siren in his corner, Mero soon won the Intercontinental title, dedicating his victory to Sable. The fans were drawn to the charismatic valet like moths to an open light. In fact, Sable proved to be so popular that even when Mero was knocked out of action with a severe knee injury, she remained in the spotlight. The sexy star began modeling WWF merchandise on the "Raw Is War" broadcasts and the fans went wild when she paraded her ample assets around in only the latest Federation T-shirt!

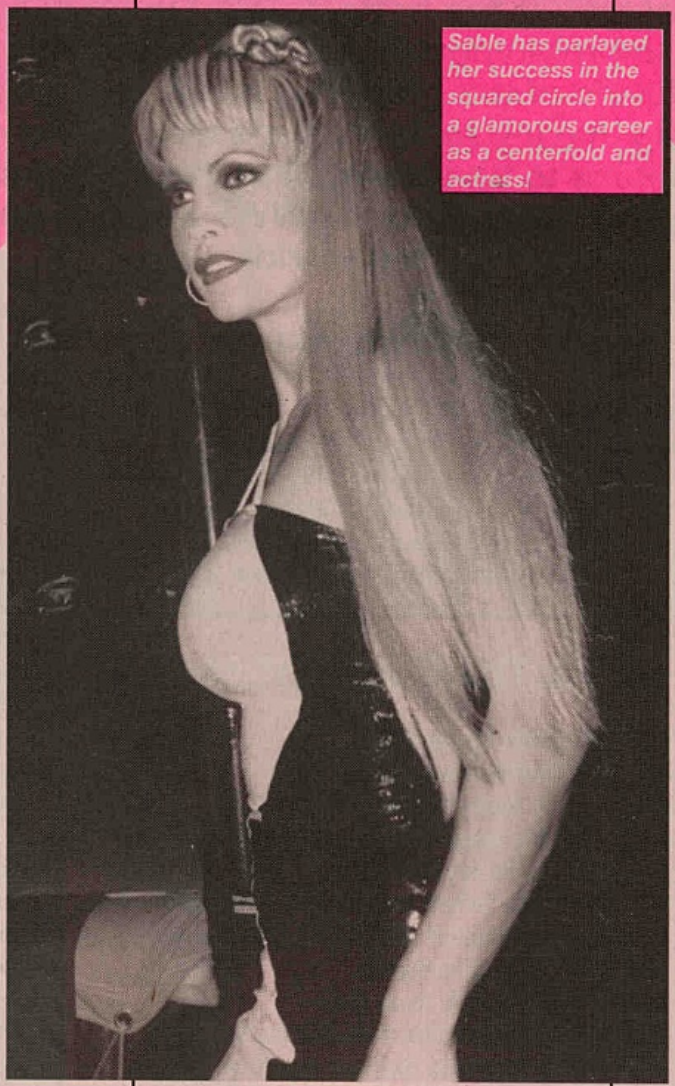
Mero lived up to his name, as "The Wildman" went wild indeed on a few occasions, berating Sable for baring most of her body for the world to see. Once, he even physically pulled her off the stage and back behind the curtain, cutting short that night's modeling session. The fans realized, however, that Mero wasn't all that upset about Sable's exhibitionism. Rather, he was jealous of all the attention she was receiving while he sat on the sidelines recovering from his injury. Mero soon made a habit of humiliating Sable whenever possible in an effort to prove that he was still the boss.

As foxy as ever, Sable again adapted to the situation, becoming more aggressive and standing up for herself. In early 1997, she got into a rather energetic argument with Mero in the middle of the ring, after which she showed a side few fans had ever seen. Sable began to get physical, helping Mero to win many matches by assaulting his opponents. Unbeknownst to the fans, Sable had trained as a kick-boxer and demonstrated her skills on Mero's unsuspecting foes, including the Undertaker!

As 1997 progressed, everything Sable touched seemed to turn to gold, including the two Slammy Awards she picked up, "Dressed To Kill" and "Miss Slammy." Her confidence grew and Sable was soon showing an independent streak a mile wide. She began to ignore Mero's commands and plotted her own course. Now billed as "Marvelous" Marc, Mero had become friendly with Goldust and Luna, and soon Sable was attacking not only Luna, but Goldust as well! She even wound up knocking Mero to the canvas on more than a few occasions, something the fans seemed to relish!

Sable and Luna embarked on a lengthy feud and the wrestling world was amazed at the talent the long-legged lovely showed in the ring. Sable definitely proved she was just not another pretty face as she exhibited wrestling prowess few thought she possessed. In a mixed tag-team match at WrestleMania XIV, the fans cheered as the babes battled and Sable treated Luna to superkicks, powerbombs and, adding insult to injury, Mero's own finishing move, the TKO! Needless to say, Sable's stellar performance led her team to victory.



Sable has parlayed her success in the squared circle into a glamorous career as a centerfold and actress!

It was all too much for Mero, who wanted Sable to apologize to him for sabotaging his career.

"What really ticked me off was that while I was in the hospital getting surgery, Sable wasn't there for me," Mero told us. "She was out using the WWF as her own catwalk, trying to become bigger than me. If it wasn't for me, she wouldn't be in professional wrestling."

Sable responded not with an apology but by demolishing her former mentor with a Sable Bomb! That set the stage for their pay-per-view match in which, if she lost, Sable would have to leave the WWF forever. She lost the match but after just a brief absence from the Federation she was back, thanks to WWF head honcho Vince McMahon! Vince might have had ulterior motives (wink, wink) but the bottom line was that the WWF needed Sable.

Sable made the best of the opportunity. She faced Mero's new valet, Jacqueline, in a "Bikini Match!" Sable's interpretation of a bikini was liberal, indeed, as she was disqualified as her top consisted of only two hands of black paint covering her magnificent mammaries! As tantalizing as it was, McMahon was forced to disqualify her and Jacqueline was awarded the victory.

"I don't think I could have pushed it much further than that!" Sable confessed.

The feud between Mero's former and current valets was far from over, though. At SummerSlam 1998, they faced each other in a mixed tag-team match, Jacqueline siding with Mero while Sable teamed with a Mystery Partner, who turned out to be the newcomer Edge. It was a wild match to say the least, but it was Sable who got the deciding pinfall on Mero after a stunning doubleteam with Edge to secure the victory.

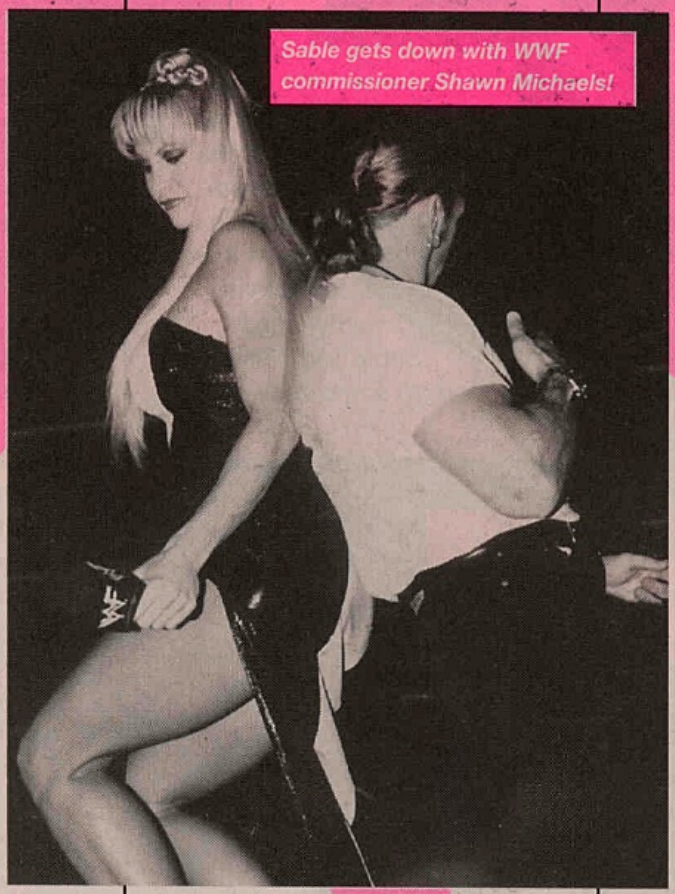
Still, these two tigresses hadn't had enough of each other. They signed to face each other in an "Evening Gown" match. Sable was no stranger to this type of match, having lost to Luna in one a few years earlier. The object of the match is to strip your opponent down to her underwear for the victory. Although the drop-dead gorgeous competitor lost to Luna, the fans were winners as they were treated to the sight of the shapely Sable in her lingerie. And she got sweet revenge on Luna by eventually stripping her entirely naked! Against Jacqueline, Sable was the winner, but still wound up in her underwear, which was just fine with the fans in attendance and those watching this "Raw Is War" broadcast at home!

Sable's immense popularity was making waves in the WWF and powers that be knew the time was right to revive the WWF's Women's championship, which had been left vacant since 1995. The match was signed and Sable and Jacqueline battled for the ladies' strap. Sable gave it her all but in the end came up short and Jacqueline was crowned as the WWF's new queen. The rivalry between the two continued, however, and Sable got the opportunity to challenge for the belt again. At Survivor Series 1998, the comely challenger went after Jacqueline with a vengeance! This time, Sable was not to be denied. She captured the coveted title belt and began her reign as the first lady of the WWF!

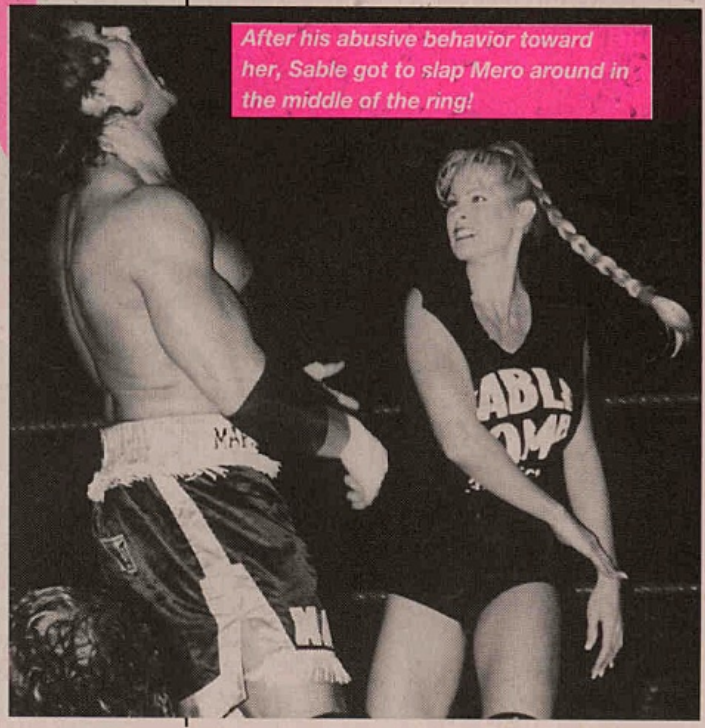
For Sable, it was a vindication of her strict adherence of the "work hard and you'll go far" motto.

"I'm very confident in myself and what I do," she explained. "I don't want to come off as being conceited in any way, but I definitely want to be considered a very confident woman."

It is not often that a lady wrestler exhibits such grace under fire but Sable certainly rose to the occasion, defending her belt with the aplomb of an experienced veteran. This being the same woman who entered the Federation under the abusive thumb of Hunter Hearst Helmsley! How the tables had turned! Sable was now the unquestioned dominant force in the WWF!



Sable gets down with WWF commissioner Shawn Michaels!



After his abusive behavior toward her, Sable got to slap Mero around in the middle of the ring!

SABLE, SABLE BURNING BRIGHT!

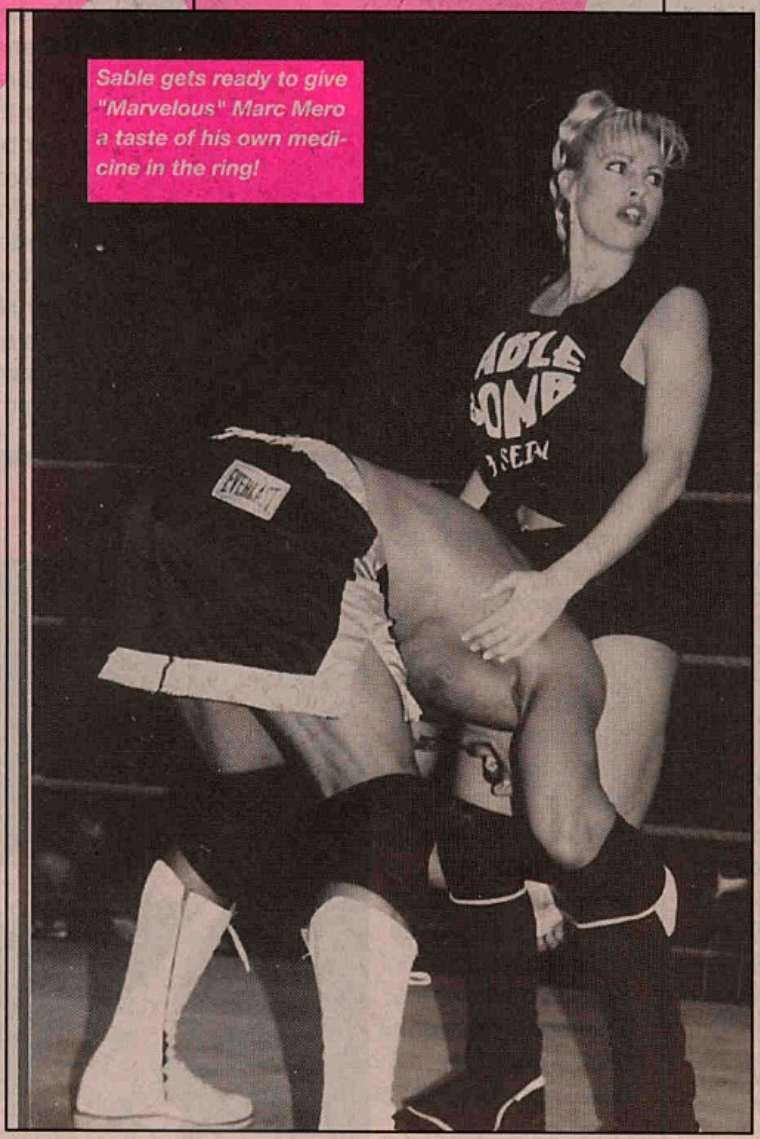
But wait. It doesn't stop there. It gets even better! Sable realized yet another dream come true when she guest-starred on the USA Network's "Pacific Blue" television series! Sable was the standout in this women-behind-bars episode and the role won critical reviews for the multi-talented ladies champ. The phone hasn't stopped ringing for sexy Sable since. In fact, one call came from Hugh Hefner himself, requesting her presence on the cover of the gentlemen's magazine Playboy!

Sable shows Luna that she is more than just a pretty face as far as the wrestling world is concerned!

Sable jumped at the opportunity and posed for a tasteful photo layout inside the magazine and a stunning cover shot in her trademark black-leather catsuit for the venerable publication's April issue.

"This has been a wonderful experience and I'm very proud that I had the opportunity to work with Playboy," Sable said after the photo shoot.

Wrestling fans were lined up around the block to snatch the first of these issues off the newsstands when it went on sale in early March. Sable had treated them to some sexy sights in the wrestling arena before but this was a side of the Queen of the WWF that fans had never seen before!



Sable gets ready to give "Marvelous" Marc Mero a taste of his own medicine in the ring!

The issue was a huge hit, naturally, and has given Sable the crossover success others in the wrestling world only dream of. Some worry, in fact, that Sable has become too big for wrestling, that the next logical step in her career will take her away from the ring wars.

Her recent behavior certainly indicates a change in her once demure demeanor. For instance, Sable recently gave a tongue lashing to an obsessed female fan and former nemesis Luna, who had come to adore Sable's beauty and talent. Not only that, she attacked both of them, thrashing them with her championship belt! It could be a case of too much success too quickly, it could be the pressure, it could be a case of temporary insanity. Whatever it is, the fans seem more than ready to forgive her.

Like Hulk Hogan before her, he being the first of the modern-day wrestlers to achieve that crossover success, Sable may indeed find herself in television and movie roles. And like Hogan, she is bound to go through some changes. But she has wrestling in her blood now and has no intentions of turning her back on the sport that skyrocketed her into such prominence.

"I always want to give the fans what they want, what they deserve," she told us. "They pay money to see the pay-per-views."

The fans will certainly continue to pay money to see more of Sable, that's for sure. Just look at the pictures and you'll agree!★

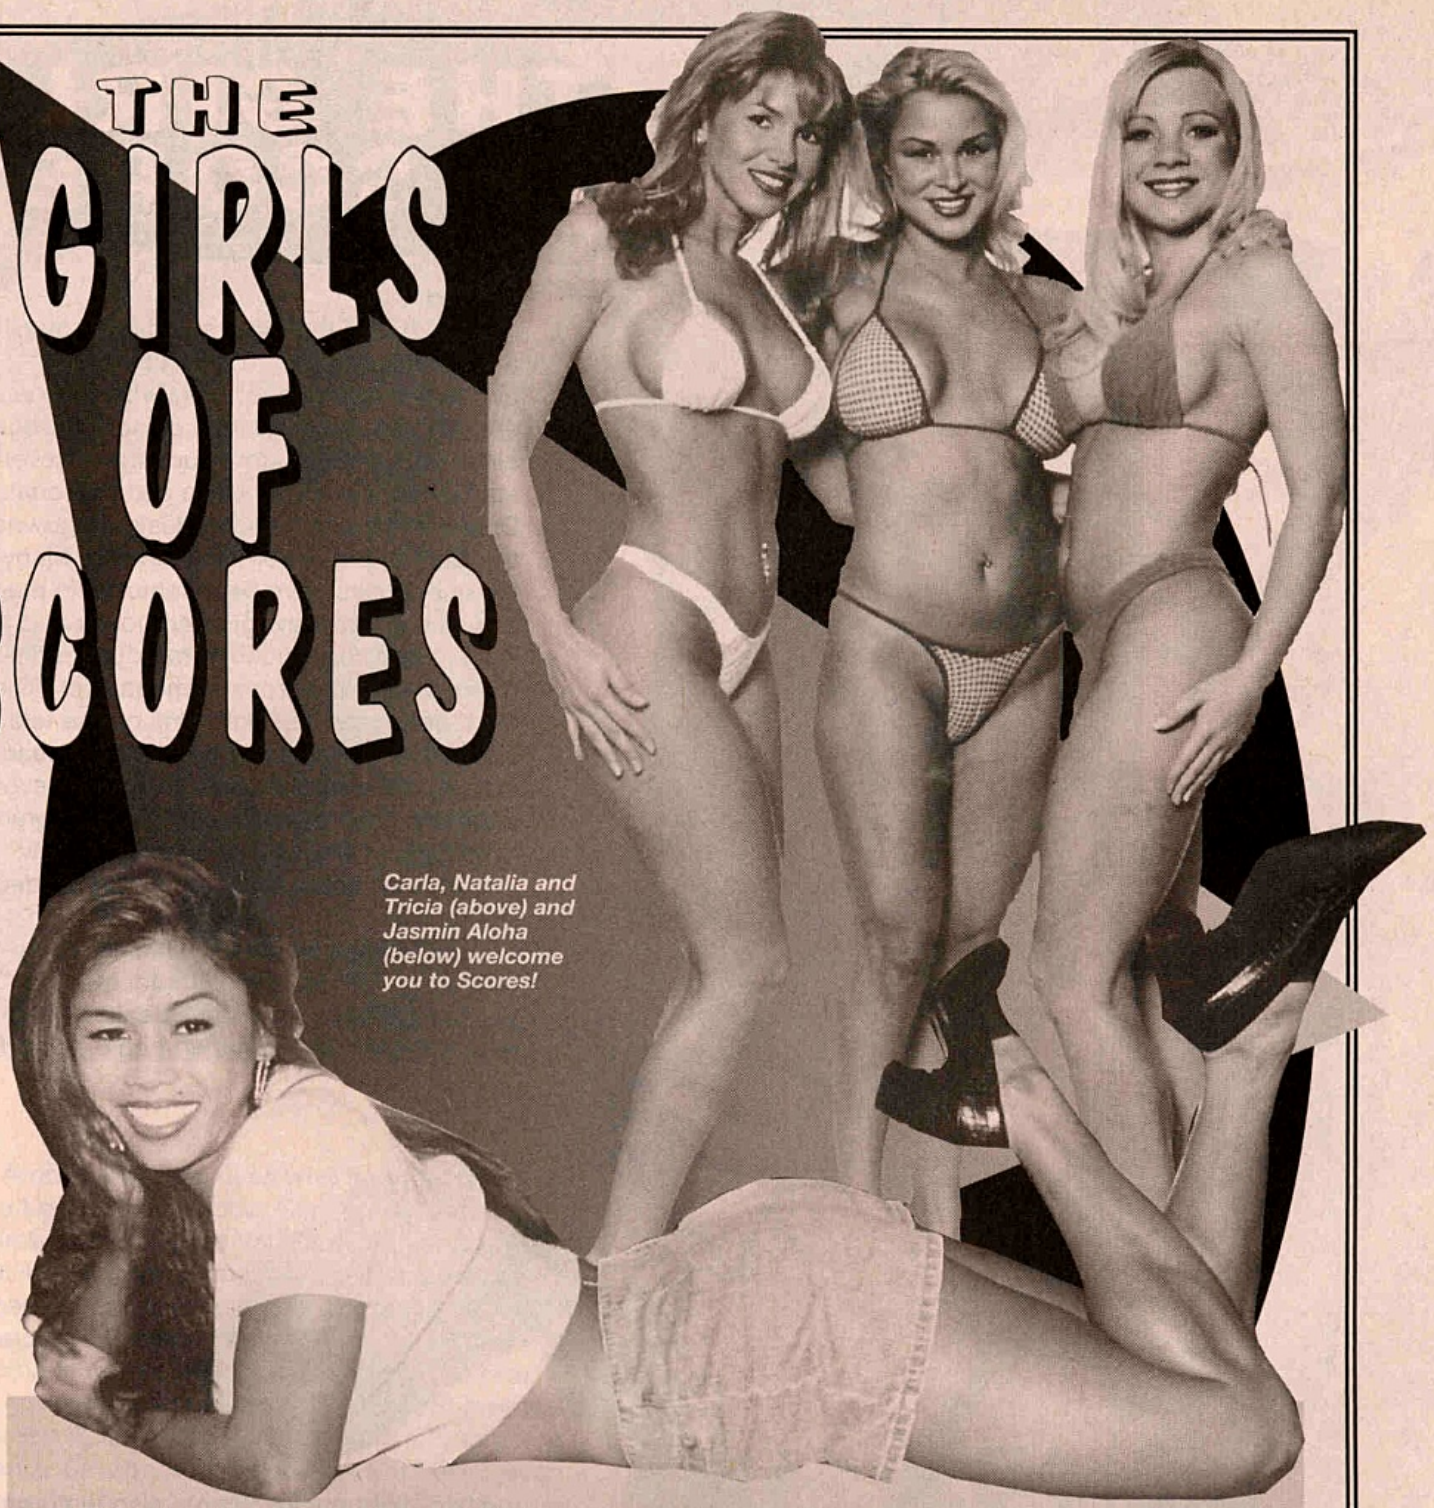
THE GIRLS OF SCORES



Carla, Natalia and Tricia (above) and Jasmin Aloha (below) welcome you to Scores!

They're the most beautiful dancers in the Big Apple who always welcome the wrestlers with open arms when the matches at Madison Square Garden and Nassau Coliseum are over. Here's a look at the girls at the world-famous nightspot where the wrestlers, other athletes and celebrities go to relax after a hard day at the office!

By Al Tessitore

THE WORLD's most famous "gentleman's club" is without a doubt, Scores. Located on the fashionable upper East Side of Manhattan (60th Street), the New York nightspot is the top choice for Fortune 500 executives, celebrities, athletes and all those looking for an unforgettable evening of entertainment. It is a top tourist attraction and the reasons are many.

THE GIRLS OF SCORES

The lovely Natalia is just one of a bevy of beauties who are waiting to greet you at the world-famous gentleman's club Scores.

Over 100 of the most beautiful showgirls are always on hand to entertain and enchant the audience. The Girls of Scores are the ultimate in beauty, poise and sensuality. They perform continuously on several stages, as well as up close and personal. Dressed in custom-made designer gowns, the Girls of Scores are all stunning. Many of these beauties have been featured in magazines such as Playboy, Penthouse and the WWF Magazine, and in numerous modeling assignments in dozens of magazines. They have been seen as bikini girls on the television show "Baywatch," and have appeared in many MTV rock videos. They have even starred in their own pay-per-view program "The Girls of Scores," which is currently available on home video in all major video stores.

The club has an award-winning restaurant which serves a continental menu, including lobster and aged steaks. It also features imported caviar and an outstanding late-night menu. Scores also features individual humidors for its selection of imported cigars. It also has a 10,000 bottle Wine Cellar and an extensive list of the finest champagnes and cognacs. It also has dozens of television monitors and giant screens which show sporting events. Simply put, it is a man's paradise!

A night at Scores is a night of sheer pleasure, satsifying all of your senses. No wonder it is the most talked-about club in the world. You probably have heard Howard Stern talk on his radio show about one of the many parties he holds regularly at Scores.

Among the celebrities who frequent Scores are Leonardo DiCaprio, Christian Slater, Val Kilmer, Jean Claude Van Damme, James Caan, Mickey Rourke. Pamela Anderson, Charlie Sheen, George Clooney, Liam Neeson, Metallica, Carmen Electra, Aerosmith, Keifer Sutherland, Nicolas Cage and dozens more.

Among the athletes who frequent Scores are Dennis Rodman, Hulk Hogan, Mike Tyson, Randy Savage, Frank Thomas, Val Venis, Brian Leetch, Jim Kelly, Hunter Hearst Helmsley, Mark Rypien, Jayson Williams, Shawn Michaels, Jake Lamotta, Michael Moorer, Tom Brandi, Oscar de la Hoya, Wilt Chamberlain, Lenny Dykstra, Paul Wight, Steve McMichael and dozens more.

It is also the home of the ultimate bachelor party. Chuck Norris, David Cone, Tommy Lee, Tom Arnold, Charlie Sheen, Fred Norris and many more have held their bachelor parties at Scores.

The official Scores calendar featuring the Girls of Scores is a true collector's item. Be sure to pick up one when you visit the club! ★

Many of the Scores Girls have been magazine covergirls and also appeared in videos, such as these three lovelies!

THE GIRLS OF SCORES

Over 100 of the most beautiful showgirls are always on hand at Scores to help the wrestlers relax after a hard day at the ofice. Here are four of the club's finest!

When he's not in Japan, Taka Michinoku can be found at Scores, his home away from home. Here he visits the Scores Girls with his pals Baboo and WWF talent scout Victor Quinones.

Val And His Gals Are Too "Hot" To Handle!

Val can always be found at matches with gorgeous women like Sommer (left) and Angelina (right) on each arm.

If you're looking for Val Venis at a wrestling match he won't be too hard to find, as he is the handsome grappler with several girls on each muscular arm. The WWF's Intercontinental Champion and his harem are hotter than ever these days, and there seems to be no cooling them down!

By Harry Gilmour

HELLO, LADIES!!!!
Wherever he goes, WWF superstar Val Venis causes a stir! The handsome grappler has legions of female fans around the globe and never fails to thrill his loyal ladies with his machismo!

CANADIAN CHAMPION

Val And His Gals "Hot" Are Too To Handle!

Canadian-born Venis likes to share everything with his women (left), even his championship belt!

"I love the pretty ladies," says the muscular Val. "I enjoy the beautiful women and they enjoy me. Sex appeal is something that I don't have to work at. I just have it," boasted the current Intercontinental Champion.

Val is always seen with gorgeous gals on his arm. He has dated many well-known actresses, models and celebrities.

One rumored recent affair was with the former "Baywatch" babe Nicole Eggert. He is also rumored to have had a romantic weekend get-away in Paris, France with TV star Tori Spelling of "Beverely Hills 90210." He has also been linked to several of the top models currently on the New York and Los Angeles scene.

The wrestling mega-star is a regular at the world-famous gentleman's club SCORES in New York and the dancers there say that Val is one of their all-time favorites. "He really knows how to party," one of the showgirls said.

He has been around the world many times defending his title and everywhere he goes the female fans follow. When he lands at an airport there are always female fans there to greet him. "I appreciate it when the girls welcome me to their hometown," he explained.

"He has bedroom eyes," explains one of the bikini models who wishes to remain anonymous. "He is so sexy. He draws you in like a magnet. He makes me weak," she gushed.

"I can't help it that the ladies love me. I am just being myself. If women find that appealing, who am I to argue," Val explains. "I always do my best to please the ladies, and they are always pleased," he bragged.★

Val's Gal Carla loves working with Venis and he returns the sentiment. "I enjoy the beautiful women and they enjoy me," he said

Beauties Among The Beasts!

Watch out Stone Cold! Move over Goldberg! The women of wrestling have arrived and are making their mark on the mat-sport now more than ever! Personalities such as Sable in the WWF, Miss Elizabeth in the WCW and Francine in the ECW are as huge as the grapplers (in more ways than one!) nowadays, as wrestling isn't just for the guys anymore!

By Robert Picarello
Associate Editor

WHO'S MORE Hollywood than Hogan? Who has broken more hearts than Shawn Michaels? Who can melt the ice from Stone Cold's veins in a stunning-minute? The gorgeous women of wrestling—that's who! These sultry ladies of the ring have risen to the top of the wrestling scene over the past few months faster than Goldberg has disposed of his squared-circle opponents. They are no longer there for their looks, as they have become the brains behind the brawn. The women play a much bigger role these days in wrestling and can no longer be considered an ornament.

They have recently broken down some barriers in the sport and are now a voice that can be heard. Not long ago, a wrestler would walk into the ring accompanied by a man who was referred to as his manger; in a like manner a woman would mirror this action and be referred to as a valet. Not any more! Times sure have changed!

The ladies are popping up and out all over the wrestling circuit, and are holding titles and positions that many thought would never be possible in this male-dominated sport. While some chauvinists still have a problem letting a female manager run their career, most grapplers welcome the possibility of letting one of these qualified personalities make their decisions.

And the personalities come in many shapes and sizes in all the major promotions. The WWF sports babes such as Sable, Terri Runnels, Debra, Luna and Chyna, while the WCW has it's share of leading ladies in Miss Elizabeth, Kimberly and the Nitro Girls. And newer independent federations like the ECW have also gotten into the act with managers such as Tamara Lynn Sytch, Tamara Lynn Bytch and Francine.

While each lady is attractive in one way or another, they didn't get to where they are today on their looks alone. Each came up through the ranks and paid her dues one way or another and has paved the way for other women who are interested in pursuing such a career. We are now going to take a look and see how some of these chicks arrived on the mat scene.

Debra

Sable

Beauties Among The Beasts

DEBRA

Currently the manager of WWF tag team champions Jeff Jarrett and Owen Hart, Debra burst onto the mat scene a short while ago when she was introduced to the sport by her ex-husband Steve "Mongo" McMichael.

The gorgeous blonde shocked the wrestling world when she appeared on the scene by the side of Jeff Jarrett on RAW. She not only has the looks but the brains as well to be successful in the mostly male-dominated sport. Debra is a shrewd business woman who knows what she wants and how to get it. She has convinced Jarrett of her unending knowledge of all the superstars in the federation, and that the potential of the tag team is unlimited with her at their side. With her cunning and intimidating tactics she has what it takes to mold a champion!

SABLE

She burst onto the wrestling scene at WrestleMania XII as Hunter Hearst Helmsley's gorgeous sidekick. But that relationship didn't last very long as fellow grappler Marc Mero grew tired of watching this beautiful valet be disrespected by Helmsley. He turned on the charm and won over Sable to his side and together they formed one of the greatest one-two punches in the business.

Sable has been just as responsible for Mero's success as the wrestler himself. In fact, under her guidance Mero won the Intercontinental belt. The shapely vixen wasn't as involved in "Wild Man's" in-ring performance when he first came over from the WCW in 1996, but over time she became more comfortable with her role and put herself and partner on another level. Sable, a.k.a. Rena Mero, not only brought her husband success, she also has garnered her own victories in the WWF. In 1997 she was named Miss Slammy, beating out the likes of Sunny and Marlena. She also became more visible on the WWF circuit when Mero went down with a knee injury and she went out into the spotlight and began modeling company merchandise. While this helped her career, it also caused a rift between her and her spouse.

No longer satisfied with being number two in this relationship, the savvy Sable let Marvelous Marc know that she's tired of his selfish, egotistical ways and that if he doesn't shape up, she's going to ship out in more ways than one! The wrestling couple took on Goldust and Luna at WrestleMania XIV and came out victorious

The blonde bombshell not only is known for her success between the ropes, as she is currently the reigning women's champ, she also posed nude in the April issue of Playboy magazine and appeared on Live with Regis and Kathie Lee in late February.

CHYNA

Chyna is perhaps the one of the most feared women personalities in wrestling today. Her physique alone can intimidate you upon first sight, but that's not what makes her so dangerous. The chiseled-out Boston native is not only into bodybuilding, but she also took it upon herself to learn karate, boxing and even graduated from "Killer" Kowalski's wrestling school.

Speaking of Kowalski, Chyna took an interest in one of his former students, Hunter Hearst Helmsley, and not only became his bodyguard, but also the official bodyguard of D-Generation X. Triple H put his trust in Chyna because he was sick and tired of being let down by all the males he had entrusted to guide him into the ring. He now has a former PGWA Rookie of the Year in Chyna (Joanie Lee) to watch his back upon ring entrances. HHH and Lee combine to be the sport's most powerful duo. Chyna also managed the "Heartbreak Kid" Shawn Michaels at one time.

LUNA

In 1993 Shawn Michaels introduced the WWF to Angelle Vachon, nowadays known to wrestling fans as Luna. Luna played a big role at the time for Michaels in his feud with Tatanka, and later on she was paired up with Goldust. Luna fared well in the squared circle as she and Goldust took on Marc Mero and Sable in last year's WrestleMania.

The 5-6, 137-pound blonde is a second-generation grappler who was trained by her father Butcher Vachon and her uncle Mad Dog Vachon. Her aunt Vivian was also a wrestler. Her brutal behavior in the ring seems to have been passed down to her niece, who was beating up on female opponents in Puerto Rico and Canada before she came to the WWF. In her career she has managed the Blackharts, Bam Bam Bigelow, Bull Nakano, Vampire Warrior and Goldust.

TERRI RUNNELS

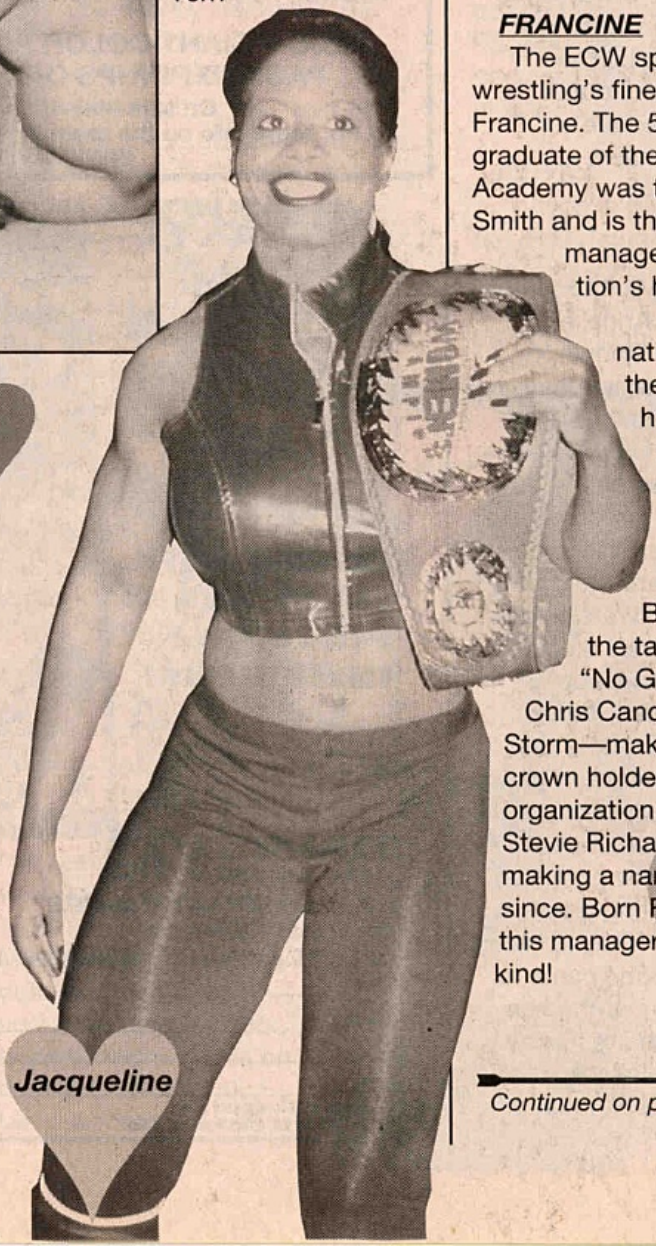
Here is a woman who has a different approach to managing than her rivals. Terri Runnels doesn't have a literal hands-on approach to overseeing her partner's career as her specialty is psychological warfare. She tends to shy away from the physical contact and tries to get into the heads of her wrestler's foe. As a matter of fact, this beautiful lady tries to get the rival grappler to turn his head at the opportune moment! But all this may soon change, as she has been palling around with Jacqueline as 1/2 of the PMS duo.

Once known to grappling fans as Marlena, Runnels has managed Mr. Wall Street, Terry Taylor, Tommy Rich, Ricky Morton and her husband Goldust. She was also thrust into the spotlight a while back with WWF heartthrob Val Venis. Known as Alexandra York a few years back in WCW, she guided the federation's Morton, Rich and Taylor to the Six Man Tag Team championship and more recently Goldust to the Intercontinental title.

JACQUELINE

The beautiful Jacqueline, who was rumored to once have a passionate relationship with Marc Mero, has most recently been spotted with Terri Runnels, as the two stunning babes have become joined at the hip with D-Lo Brown and Mark Henry. Jacqueline and Runnels have deemed themselves PMS (Pretty Mean Sisters) and where this foursome winds up is anyone's guess, but it should be fun to watch!

Jacqueline is a former Women's champion who doesn't hide her dislike for her colleague Sable. The former Miss Texas recently lost the belt to Sable and will do whatever she has to do to regain the strap. The battles the two have waged against one another recently will go down in history, but the guess here is that the best is yet to come!



FRANCINE

The ECW sports one of wrestling's finest managers in Francine. The 5-7, 117-pound graduate of the ECW's Wrestling Academy was trained by J.T. Smith and is the first triple-crown manager in the federation's history.

The Philadelphia native was managing the ECW world heavyweight champion "The Franchise" Shane Douglas, ECW world television champion Bam Bam Bigelow and the tag team champs "No Gimmicks Needed" Chris Candidio and Lance Storm—making her the triple crown holder. She entered the organization in 1995 by way of Stevie Richards and has been making a name for herself ever since. Born Francine Fournier, this manager is truly one of a kind!

BEULAH

Beulah McGillicutty made her living as a manager in the ECW. She was born and raised in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and has managed grapplers like Raven, Stevie Richards and Tommy Dreamer. She has one championship title to her credit and that was the one she won while managing the tag team duo of Raven and Stevie Richards.

Otherwise known as Theresa Hayes, Beulah is currently out of the mat scene but the guess here is that she'll resurface in the near future.

MISS ELIZABETH

She has been a mainstay on the wrestling scene for many years and she is as hot as ever! Not only was she married to Randy "Macho Man" Savage for several years, she was also his manager. Elizabeth guided her then husband/wrestler to a WWF championship belt.

Born Elizabeth Heulette, the elegant brunette also turned the tables on her former-partner and managed his arch-rival Hulk Hogan. The Frankfort, Kentucky native is one of the best at getting the attention of the opposition, consequently leading her partner to victory. She is currently the manager of one of wrestling's hottest groups—nWo Wolfpac.

THE NITRO GIRLS

Although her husband, Diamond Dallas Page, may have the brawn, Kimberly was the brains behind the current hit sensation Nitro Girls in the WCW. Otherwise known as Kimberly Falkenberg, the NG's leader likes her current position in the wrestling world because she didn't like the rough and tumble antics that went on by ringside.

Her background as an aerobics instructor and her competing in natural fitness competitions made her idea of the Nitro Girls a perfect fit. The Atlanta native hand-picked her seven fella' dancers (Fire, Chae, Spice, Whisper, Tygress, Storm & A.C.) and the rest as they say is history! Or her-story in this case!

Each dreamy dance member brings different credentials to the stage each event. A.C. (Amy Crawford) manages her own cheerleading/dance school, while Fire (Teri Byrne) is a certified fitness instructor and mortgage broker. Spice (Melissa Bellin), who is a doctor of chiropractic medicine, choreographs many of the squad's dance routines, while Chae (Chae An), who is a former Atlanta Falcons cheerleader, likes to spend her time training horses.

Whisper (Rebecca Curci) is a fitness instructor and swimsuit model, while Tygress (Vanessa Bozman) is a former CPA and Storm (Sharmell Sullivan) is a former Miss Black America who is a choreographer with a degree in Mathematics.

TAMARA LYNN SYTCH

Tammy Sytch, formerly known to all mat fans as Sunny, makes her living in the ECW. She first appeared as a ring manager with the now-defunct Smoky Mountain Wrestling league as Tammy Fytch. She then latched on to the Body Donnas in the WWF and her main purpose was to lead her men to victory at any cost. The two, needless to say, were wearing the tag-team belt in no time. As no title lasts forever, the Body Donnas lost their reign to the Godwinns and the beautiful blonde persuaded the team to take her on as manager. She now took on the challenge of managing her second tag-title holding duo in a row. Sunny then went on to do the unthinkable, as she managed to hook up with the Smoking Gunns in a controversial match where the Gunns stole the title from the Godwinns; making her the first person to manage three tag-team title holders in a row!

Beauties Among The Beasts

Sytch is one of the most recognizable and controversial figures in wrestling. The one-time host of Live Wire is generally loved by men — except the Godwinns who slopped her at one time—but she is also virtually hated by most women because of her success and beauty. Even though she left WWF on bad terms, she still remains one of the most recognizable faces in the industry.

The New Jersey native had this to say regarding her stature: "Of course these people are all jealous of my looks and success, but they just can't help admiring all I have to offer."★

SuperGirl!

Up-and-coming actress Renee Dungan was just super in her executive secretary role in the "Behind the Scenes" WWF Super Bowl commercial. The piece, which aired during the third quarter of the NFL championship, received rave reviews, but it also stirred up some controversy as Renee's sexy character was shown making out with an unnamed WWF executive.

By Len Strippmann

THE LOVELY Renee Dungan is an up-and-coming actress and model who is bound for great things. She played the role of the sexy secretary in the award-winning WWF Super Bowl commercial which was viewed by millions. The spot received rave reviews from advertising experts and was discussed throughout the media. Airing during the third quarter of the Super Bowl, the commercial was rumored to cost more than one million dollars to broadcast!

The commercial starred Steve Austin, The Rock, The Undertaker, ManKind and Sable. The 30-second piece was a tongue-in-cheek look at the "behind the scenes" ongoings at the WWF headquarters.

While praised as being humorous and well-produced, the spot did have its detractors. The American Family Association thought the scene with Renee as the sexy secretary making out with an unnamed executive was too racy!

The WWF takes the controversy in stride, as they should. The commercial was ranked as one of the best by several publications, including TV Guide, Advertising Age and Ad Week.

As far as Renee Dungan, the controversy has not hurt her career. She is currently signed as a lingerie model for three catalogs and appears in two different bikini calendars. She also is slated for a role in the next Ted Demme feature film.★

Missy
Hyatt

Missy Hyatt

THE FIRST LADY OF WRESTLING!

Beautiful, sexy, steamy, provocative, adventurous, versatile, exciting and sensuous. Missy Hyatt is all that and more. In fact, you can just call her "champ," as Missy won the AWF championship, becoming the first woman in the history of the sport to hold a man's title belt!

By Scott Epstein

HOW many angels can dance on the head of a pin? How many wrestling fans can be packed into Cactus Pete's Bar & Grill Restaurant in Scarborough, Ontario? The answer is the same in both cases; infinite....

The pre-card luncheon was scheduled for noon, to be followed by the Apocalypse Wrestling Federation (AWF) card at 4:00 p.m. The AWF, under the direction of Chris Mulchinock, Rod Boudreau and Ron Hutchison is a new independent federation with talent galore. Names such as Abdullah the Butcher, Jimmy Superfly Snuka, The Iron Sheik, Jim "The Anvil" Neidhart, Bastion Booger, Terry Funk, The Honky Tonk Man and Sensational Sherri Martel are the top veterans. Additionally, newcomers under the AWF banner are The Squeegee Kid, Ms. B. Haven, Zakk Wilde, El Fuego Kid and Danny Dynamite.

I was immediately impressed upon entering Cactus Pete's, trailing none other than the one and only first lady of wrestling, Missy Hyatt. The M.C.

Missy cautiously eyes Sherri after a sneak attack in which a pitcher of soda became Missy's shampoo! Courageously, Missy protected the gold!

Missy Hyatt: The First Lady of Wrestling

Rumor has it that Missy is not only training for the squared circle but also for bodybuilding competitions. Note the definition of her arms.

had the 300-plus fans engaged in an activity, making it so much easier for us to enter nearly unnoticed. Unnoticed? Who am I kidding? Walking anywhere with Missy Hyatt and going unnoticed could qualify as the oxymoron statement of the year!

Yes, Missy Hyatt was in Maple Leaf country, making her debut in the AWF. "Who is she managing?" a young man asked me. I thought for a moment, then pointed to the wall poster showing that afternoon's lineup. It listed a mixed tag-team match for the AWF Heavyweight Championship, featuring the team of Sensational Sherri and The Squeegee Kid versus Missy Hyatt and Ms. B. Haven. "She's managing herself," I responded.

By now, the 300-strong crowd had noticed Missy. They were anxious to hear from her as most noticed a radical change. "Wow, her new color is awesome!" an 18-year old female told me.

As she walked to the front of the room to join the master of ceremonies for an interview and Q & A session, I watched heads turning to follow her path. Male and female heads followed the strut of the "First lady of Wrestling."

Young and old alike were in awe as Missy took the microphone and welcomed the crowd to the luncheon. I wasn't surprised. How do you think this classy lady became the "First lady of Wrestling" anyhow? Her power to make jaws drop certainly helped. When you add up Hyatt's gift of gab, incredible good looks, intelligence and sense of humor, you have one hell of a woman!

"How old are you, Missy?" belted out a wiseguy who wasn't even called upon. I could read the minds of the other fans in the room as Missy responded with the accurate number...every guy fantasized and every gal became a Hyatt wannabe.

Where has she been the last few years? What has she accomplished both in and outside of the squared circle? I quietly pondered these answers as I too watched in awe as Missy fielded some pretty tough fan questions.

"Do you ever get offers like Sable and Sunny do from the nudie magazines?" an 11-year old boy coyly asked. I couldn't help but crack up! As a sports journalist and public relations specialist I'd know of her many "offers." I felt all warm inside too, because I also knew how she handled them and what her response to the crowd would be. Missy Hyatt is a class act!

I began thinking about the upcoming wrestling card. Missy would be wrestling in less than two hours in a mixed tag team bout and opposing Sensational Sherri, the former WWF Women's champion. My adrenaline began to pump faster. Missy had mastered her valet, managerial and color commentating skills but this was her first wrestling match. Sure, Johnny Rodz, her trainer back at world-famous Gleason's Gym in Brooklyn, is terrific but I hadn't seen her during her training period nor interviewed her about her grappling skills. My mind began to wander and I began to daydream, my mind traveling back to the past at record-breaking speed.

I thought back to the "gold old days" of Bruno, Superstar Graham, "Polish Power" Ivan Putski and, of course, captain Lou Albano and his Rock & Wrestling connection that included pop icon Cyndi Lauper.

I remembered the jacket of my album cover, "The Wrestling Album" was its name, to be exact. The then-popular WWFers were emblazoned on the cover, Jesse "The Body" Ventura being the most highlighted in his ring attire fit for only a champion.

Remembering the members of the WWF team back then, I pondered their current whereabouts. It went something like this: my old friend Jesse is the Governor of Minnesota, Freddie Blassie is senile, Albano is doing charity causes and independent wrestling shows, Lauper's a has-been, Hacksaw is ill (get well quick to one of the nicest guys in the business), Vince survives, JYD didn't and, of course, the trilogy of icons—Hogan, Piper and Savage—practice Turnerism on a daily basis. Not to mention 92.675% of the rest of the 'Boys" have jumped ship to Turnerland. Now mind you, I said "boys." Pardon the gender-bashing stuff but what about those gorgeous ladies of wrestling? Those women we couldn't take our eyes off of that defined female wrestling as the pretty, voluptuous, sexy women every wrestling guy would die for. From the album alone was Miss Elizabeth (now WCW/nWo) and Madusa Micelli (retired) the only ones on the scene and certainly two of the greatest females in the sport.

Soon, along came the others, Luna Vachon, Kimona, Sherri Martel, Miss Texas (Jacqueline), Sunny, Marlena (Terri Runnels), Beulah, Francine, Kimberly, Debra McMichael and a whole lot more.

It was in 1985 that the world of professional wrestling unleashed its non-chemical Viagra in the form (and I do mean form) of one Missy Hyatt. Daydreaming about Melissa Hart, 5-8, 120-pound blonde bombshell, the Tallahassee lassie, the one and only true First Lady of Wrestling. When I think of Missy Hyatt (and all my colleagues concur), the combination of 19 adjectives and adverbs flow. It reads something like this: BEAUTIFUL, SEXY, STEAMY, LUSCIOUS, EXOTIC, SIZZLING, BODACIOUS, PROVOCATIVE, ADVENTUROUS, RISQUÉ, WILD, NAUGHTY, SWEET, INCREDIBLE, VERSATILE, EXCITING, SENSUAL and HOT.

Sherri looking not-so "Sensational" as Missy delivers a gut buster!

Gone for a short stint after legal problems with WCW, Missy turned up in ECW but the extreme violence was far too chaotic for the now more-tamed beauty and pre-med student. "Insanity is my only means of relaxation," quipped Missy during her ECW gigs.

Next came some American Wrestling Federation house shows and TV tapings. They looked like a viable bunch of guys, including big names such as Tito Santana and Sgt. Slaughter, but like so many independent organizations they nose dive for too much too soon and bye bye American Dream.

The NWA, the National Wrestling Alliance, the part that was able to stay intact after the Turner buyout and other mainstay of independent promoters, began to call and make her offers to manage their superstars. But Missy had already set new goals. Her strong drive and quest for knowledge consumed her.

Sometimes, after a wrestling appearance, instead of going to a bar to drink I would have to go to Barnes and Noble in order to get the interview I needed to complete my articles. More than 50% of the time I wound up never completing the story. Instead, Missy would find a fitness magazine or a Cosmo or something and read it and tell me if she thought it was accurate form a nutritional or medical viewpoint. How would she know so much? Unbeknownst to me, Missy's thirst for knowledge in this area, facts about the human body systems, diet, nutrition, weight training and exercise would be serving a dual purpose--filling an educational need and this woman an opportunity to intelligently compete in her sport. "I'm gonna do both in moderation," she told me in late November.

M.H.: My education is my priority. I am a biology major now with a minor in secondary education. From there, if my needs are still where they are today, look out medical schools, here I come!

S.E.: How could you possibly find time to study, do homework and your daily life skills all week long and work in the world of wrestling, especially if you plan on going to wrestling school?

M.H.: It's all about keeping things simple and within each day. You know, Scott, it is sort of like the expression 'one day at a time.' If I want it bad enough, I'm gonna set out and get it. Certainly, I do have to do my school work, so wrestling gigs from Monday through Thursday are out of the question. Prioritizing my life has made me a stronger and more dedicated person. I have my fiancé Scott to thank for that. He is a wonderful man and a powerful example for me. He loves me for who Melissa Hyatt is, good or bad, non-judgmental.

S.E.: Please clarify this fiancé business, Missy. You are engaged to be married to a fellow named Scott. Scott who? I know a few Scotts. Isn't Roddy Piper a Scot?

M.H.: CLARIFY THIS, SCOTT EPSTEIN! It isn't you!

The new champ struts her stuff! You go, girl!

S.E.: S..s..s..sorry Melissa. Boy, what happened to this new, more-mellowed Missy Hyatt? I thought you more or less just said that you are a new woman who can handle all of these things in your life. To paraphrase your words, you got rid of your inner bitch. By the way, it isn't me? Are you sure?

M.H.: YES I'M SURE, SCOTT EPSTEIN! And if you must know, his name is Scott Levitt. Furthermore, don't paraphrase me by changing what I've said to what you are inferring. I mean, you just should have realized that Missy Hyatt is back, rejuvenated, recharged, reborn. I'm no longer going to be a doormat for you magazine writers or anyone any longer. Do you get it, Epstein? Yep, the First lady is back, all right. I'm gonna be all I can be. I've set my goals, prioritized them, and now I'm going for it! Yep, you can say I'm back and for you, Scott Epstein, I'll simply say, yes, the BITCH IS BACK!

S.E.: Hey Miss, I'm sorry! I didn't mean to...Missy...Miss...where are you going? Don't be angry, I only wanted to....

I didn't see Missy again that day until show time, when she came out of the locker room towards the ring with her partner Ms. B. Haven, who appeared to be a wolf in sheep's clothing, so to speak. A male in a dress. The AWF ring announcer introduced Missy and the crowd went ballistic!

If Missy was nervous about her first wrestling match, she could have fooled me. She looked beautiful, baby-like skin on her face reflecting the poor spotlights above. Her face glowing. Sherri came out with her partner who had a squeegee in hand (The Squeegee Kid, remember?). Sherri grabbed the mic from the ring announcer and in her own "sensational" way worked the audience as she bashed Missy about her looks and questioned her ability to wrestle.

Sherri mentioned during the luncheon that "that li'l ole bony jabronie hussie Missy whatever, you had better put some meat on her bones 'cause honey, she's gonna crack in two when I get finished."

The war of words between the gals was about even at some point when they both decided to do some serious rasslin'. Missy kept attempting a Pearl Harbor sneak attack while Sherri worked the crowd on the other side. Sherri pulled off one her herself...not to mention Missy's sweater (see photo)...and, oh, what a matchup! The finale coming with Ms. B. Haven tagging

Missy, who swept Sherri's leg and got the pin.

"I think Missy was in shock," the ref told me later. "I went to raise her hand and said 'Congrats, champ' and she pulled her hand away from me and looked at me as if I were nuts."

The roar of the crowd was deafening. And each time I replayed the tape, I realized that what the ref said was true—Missy was in shock. She had just been victorious in her first-ever wrestling match, not to mention becoming the Canadian Heavyweight champion!

I watched as Missy ran with the belt out of the ring and into the locker room. A jubilant Ms. B. Haven followed and I could see Neidhart by the door high-fiving her. He was due out next as part of a Battle Royale.

Sherri grabbed the mic and once again gave us all a lesson in humility. "Missy, Missy Hyatt, come out, come out wherever you are," Sherri taunted. "Come on, champ! Yep, you're the champ! Come on out!"

Missy cautiously appeared at ringside, belt draped over her shoulder. As time would prove, not cautiously enough to stop Sherri from a sneak attack with a pitcher of Coke, which was spilled over on Missy's auburn locks.

The champ went wild chasing Sherri around the ring to no avail and decided to fight the war psychologically. Each lady took her turn at the microphone to tell the fans who was the better of the two in the squared circle.

"Don't forget, everyone," Missy shouted, "this isn't a woman's title belt like Sherri used to have. This is Missy Hyatt, champion in the men's world! My mobile phone is already ringing with challenges from the AWF stars such as Terry Funk, Abdullah, Superfly Snuka and the Honky Tonk Man."

"Well, Missy Hyatt, I challenge you to a rematch, without these jabronie men in here," Sherri retorted. "Just you and me girl, one on one for the strap. You've got 60 days to defend. Let's see what kind of woman you are!"

A hush came over the crowd. The AWF commissioners approached Missy and gave her their blessings and a date within the time frame.

"April 11th," Missy told Sherri. "I'll pin your fat ass just like I did here on Valentine's Day!"

With the rematch set, Missy certainly proved that she is the true, one and only, First Lady of professional wrestling. Remember, just like art imitates life, female valets imitate Missy. Flattery will get you everywhere!★
